At Paris the president will receive the king and queen of England on their official visit and will probably undertake a return visit to London to wards the close of the year. Queen Wilhelmina and the Prince Consort of the Netherlands are also awaited in Paris this year. Finally, there is another visit calculated to be of a political and picturesque nature. Moulay Hafid, the Sultan of Morocco, which What Mrs. McCue Says About the Old has recently been made a protectorate of France, will be the guest of the republic in the month of July, and will be present at the great military review at Longonamps on July 14.
